Wine Cellar Innovations Offers Continuing Education Course

01/11/2010

Cincinnati - January 11, 2010 - Wine Cellar Innovations now offers a continuing education course on proper wine cellar construction, as well as different types of wine racks and wine storage. The course allows professionals from a number of groups and affiliations, including AIA, NARI, and CSI, to obtain course credit necessary for professional development.

The course provides an overview of the design and construction requirements for wine storage, including room build out, suitable materials, and climate control. Participants are able to complete the course in one of two methods. An online version allows course completion in the comfort of home or office, and results are uploaded immediately to AEC Daily for tracking. Lunch & Learn courses, presented by Wine Cellar Innovations' Regional Design Consultants, are ideal for larger companies or firms needing accreditation for multiple people simultaneously.

"We're excited to offer this course," said Tony Wilke, Vice President of Operations for Wine Cellar Innovations. "In addition, we will soon be including architectural specifications to our website as an added benefit to building professionals looking to specify our products or services."

For more information on this exciting development, or to access the course, visit Wine Cellar Innovations' website at <http://www.winecellarinnovations.com/continued-education.htm> or call 800.229.9813, ext 321.
