Wine Zone Release

01/08/2007

CINCINNATI-January 8, 2007-As the number of wine collectors and investors continues to grow, Wine Cellar Innovations has simplified the search for high-end refrigeration units with one word: Winezone.

Winezone refrigeration units cool the entire wine cellar, allowing large wine collections to age perfectly for as long as they many need. The Winezone refrigeration units are available in three styles to fit every collector's wine storage application.

The Winezone Air Handler is a ducted refrigeration system that utilizes return and supply vents to maintain a constant temperature in the cellar. This system also has optional humidification, dehumidification, and alarm modules to ensure that the wine is kept at the perfect conditions for proper aging.

The Winezone Ductless Split system features an attractive wall-mounted evaporator and does not require duct work into the cellar. Perfect for applications where duct work is not an option, this system will also maintain optimal wine cellar humidity with the addition of one of Wine Cellar Innovations' decorative humidification fountains.

The Winezone Waterfall system offers temperature and humidity control in one beautifully displayed system. Patented by Wine Cellar Innovations, this system features an air handler housed in a designer cabinet with an actual waterfall fixture in a Corian tabletop. Not only does the Waterfall system blend into the cellar aesthetically, but it also adds the soothing sound of cascading water to the wine cellar environment.
